Fash Spreading Snowstorm Hurts Inaugural

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A huge blizzard staggered much of the snowbound East today, blocking roads, closing hundreds of schools and factories and trapping grounded planes.

The snow ranged up to 29 inches and, in some areas, blustering winds blew up drifts that were 10 feet high.

Temperatures plunged as low as 29 below zero in Caribou, Maine, and freezing weather stung the whole storm zone.

Pennsylvania counted nine weather deaths, New York four and Indiana two.

The inauguration of President John F. Kennedy shared attention in Washington with emergency action to get the big show on the road. Eight inches of snow, blown in winds with gusts up to 32 miles an hour, brought out thousands of workmen and a fleet of trucks.

Hundreds of snowplows labored through the night and cleared 1 1/2 miles of Pennsylvania Avenue of nearly all ice and snow for the inaugural parade between the Capitol and the White House.

But the national capital fared well compared with some cities that were virtually paralyzed.

New York City was clobbered by snow that averaged 10 inches. Schools were closed and business and industry were hit by a lack of manpower.

The blizzard swept into the city in the midst of a strike that al-

Castro Regime Executes Four More Cubans

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's Cubans today. His regime began dismantling some of its defenses after 20 hectic days of alert against the invasion that never came.

The two men were executed at Havana's La Cabaña prison. Their names were not announced immediately.

They and six others were sentenced to die Thursday after conviction on charges of terrorism and sabotage. The newspaper Revolution said the sentences of two of the men, convicted of killing militiamen, are reduced to 30 years imprisonment. Authorities were silent on the fate of the other four. Seven other defendants were given 30-year sentences.

The executions brought to 517 the unofficial total of those gunned down by Castro's firing squads since he took power in January 1959.

Castro scheduled a speech this afternoon to welcome home some of the civilian militiamen being demobilized as the government pulled in its anti-invasion horns.

It was assumed he would repeat his claim of last week that only the 20-day alert and the arms given him by the Communist bloc prevented the invasion he had said the Eisenhower administration would order before it left office.

Castro's supporters kept up their jibes at the outgoing President. Foreign Minister Raul Roa said in a radio address Thursday night that only a few hours remained for "the most genuine representative of an aristocratic policy of power to abandon the White House and Wall Street."

Santiago University students staged a funeral procession for the Eisenhower administration.

May Change Tax Paying Site

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Three or four families living on a remote mountainous strip on the northwest corner of Newton County have been paying their taxes in Madison County because it's much easier for them to get to.

The legislature may make their action proper, Reps. W. D. Baker of Newton County and A. C. Mowery Jr. of Madison County introduced a bill in the House Thursday to put the mountaineers in Madison County. Newton County would cede a strip a mile wide and three miles long from its northwestern tip.

Soft Drink Tax May Find the Going Tough

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislature, apparently satisfied to have a controversial congressional redistricting problem behind it, was on a long weekend today, preparing to cope with another tough matter — a proposed soft drink tax.

The first showdown on the soft drink proposal is not scheduled until Jan. 31, when the House Revenue and Taxation Committee will hold a public hearing on the bill. But the spade-work will have to be done between now and then.

Presidents of the University of Arkansas and the seven state-supported colleges drew up the tax measure, which would support a $52 million bond issue proposal, and had it introduced in the House by Columbia Rep. Harry B. Colay.

The presidents met at the capitol today and the soft drink tax probably was discussed, although the meeting was called principally for a study of proposals to create a super-board of finance for the eight institutions.

Dr. J. W. Hull, president of Arkansas Tech and a spokesman for the group, was asked if there was any inclination to back down on the tax proposal in the face of stout opposition from bottlers.

"We're in the game and we never quit until the last whistle blows," Hull said.

One of the presidents, who asked not to be identified, admitted privately, however, that the tax proposal "hasn't got off the ground yet."

Proponents of the measure apparently plan to hitch their strategy to the proposition that the legislature won't be passing an actual tax, merely referring a tax and bond issue proposal to the voters. Referral is required by law in the case of bond issues, but the legislature can pass taxes without asking for a popular vote.

Colay's bill would set up a statewide referendum in which voters would be asked to approve a one-cent per bottle tax on soft drinks and a $52 million bond issue for construction at the educational institutions, the State Hospital and the Arkansas Children's Colony.

Several legislators, including House Speaker John P. Bethell, have predicted that, as a referendum measure, the bill will pass.

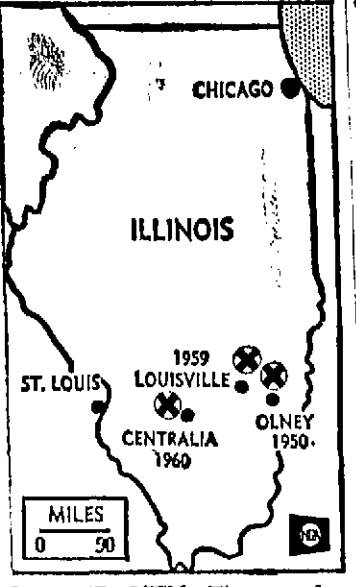

"I don't see how we can deny the people the right to vote on something like this," Bethell said. But opponents of the Colay bill pointed out that it puts the proposal to a vote in a special election, for which turnouts are notoriously light in Arkansas. They say that the vote would not be representative.

"I would think more of the bill if the vote were set for some regular election," said one legislator. However, the next general election is two years away and the college presidents say construction needs can't wait that long.

Many legislators are not sure how their constituents stand on the proposal. They say they are getting expressions of support and opposition but the reports are not in sufficient quantities to establish a general sentiment.

"I'd say right now that opposition outweighs support, but it's close," said Sever Rep. George W. Davis. "I'm not ready to take a stand on this thing yet."

Davis' feeling is shared by a large number of his colleagues as the showdown nears.

High Award in Scouting to Dr. Crow

Dr. F. C. Crow of Hope was awarded the Silver Beaver Award at the annual Boy Scout banquet of the Caddo Area Council held at Texarkana last night.

This is the highest award that can be given by the council for long and faithful service to the scouting movement.

Dr. Crow has been associated continuously in some capacity with the Boy Scouts since 1929, and in 1959 served as chairman of the Piney Woods District, consisting of Lafayette, Hempstead, Nevada and the south half of Howard counties in the Caddo Council, which extends to Menard, to Linden, Texas, and has its office in Texarkana.

Clifford Franks was again installed as vice president of the Council and John Morris Jr. of Texarkana was installed as a new member. Guest speaker was Col. Curtis Williams, JAGC, US Army Judge of the 7th Judicial Circuit, Fort Sill, Okla., who organized the first scout district in Germany and later in Korea. He reported that in over 1400 cases of general courts-martial he had presided over in the past 3 years only 3 of the defendants had been Boy Scouts and none had become first class Scouts.

Also attending from Hope were Mrs. Clifford Franks and Royce Weisenberger.

Thousands Line Streets for the Big Parade

By WITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Kennedy led his inaugural gauntlet of cheering thousands today on the way to the White House where he takes up residence for the next four years.

Relaxed and beaming in the biting cold, the 43-year-old chief executive rode with his wife, Jacqueline, in an open car. It was the same White House bubble-top automobile in which he had ridden to the Capitol for the solemn swearing-in ceremony, but for the return trip even the transparent top had been removed.

As the procession wheeled into historic Pennsylvania Avenue crowds stood in the remnants of the snow that all but paralyzed the capital Thursday night, to roar a greeting.

As the Kennedy car turned into the mile and a half route, military units at the side snapped to attention and saluted.

Kennedy acknowledged their greeting to the new commander in chief. Then turned to others standing along the route.

He started out the run with his high silk hat on his head. A little later he took it off and held it in his lap while he waved to the bystanders. Then he varied the procedure by putting the hat on and tipping it in acknowledgement of cheers.

By the time the parade got going, crowds along the route near the Capitol lined the street at least five deep. But there were still large blocks of empty seats in the stands for which tickets were sold out days ago.

The first family's car, bearing inaugural license tag No. 1, moved very slowly.

A couple of blocks from the Capitol, the Kennedys got a look at some of the parade units—including missiles and other military equipment—which a bit later would pass in review before the White House.

At some points along the route police had a bit of difficulty holding back the crowds.

Applause seemed to mount steadily as the procession moved toward the inaugural parade reviewing stand in front of the White House.

Occasionally during the ride the President and his wife chatted momentarily.

The Kennedy car was preceded by marching servicemen with massed colors.

The entire parade route had been cleared, right down to the pavement, by an army of men and a huge array of equipment borrowed from the Army.

Democrats, celebrating their return to executive power in Washington, jubilantly decided against

Communists Asked to Join Peace Quest

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—A deadly serious John F. Kennedy became president today in deadly times with an eloquent plea for the Communists to join him in a quest for peace lest all humanity be destroyed.

At the cold, windswept, snow-covered Capitol the old order left and the new came in.

Kennedy, at 43 the youngest elected president in our history, took the oath as the nation's 35th chief executive from Chief Justice Earl Warren at 12:51 p.m.

The simple, impressive ceremony took but a moment, and Kennedy immediately plunged into the world problems that will occupy most of his thoughts during the next four years.

"The President began his inaugural address with a vow that this nation would remain strong. 'Let every nation know,' he said, 'whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty.'"

He never mentioned the Communists by name when he said: "To those nations who would make themselves our adversary, we offer not a pledge but a request: that both sides begin anew the quest for peace, before the dark powers of destruction unleashed by science engulf all humanity in planned or accidental self-destruction."

Nearly all the notables in the nation were here—governors, senators, representatives, Supreme Court justices. A few, including former President Herbert Hoover, were kept away by Thursday night's snowstorm.

But ex-President Harry S. Truman was on the inaugural stand, beaming to see a Democrat take over the White House again after eight years of Republican rule.

And Dwight D. Eisenhower, at 70 the oldest president in U.S. history, listened quietly as his youthful successor confidently said: "Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans—born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a cold and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage—and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today."

There was no immediate explanation, but Kennedy, who had arrived at the Capitol early, did not come on to the inaugural stand until 12:12 p. m., or 12 minutes late.

Even then the program wasn't ready to begin, and there was considerable milling about on the platform.

Eisenhower and Kennedy didn't seem to mind. They chatted amiably and at times energetically.

Neither smiled much. Mostly, Kennedy listened soberly, squinting into the sunlight made exceptionally bright by the snow.

The program finally got under way—20 minutes late.

There were the prayers from leaders of four faiths, Roman Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Greek Orthodox.

There was the stirring, martial music, the singing, and, curiously, three even was curiously. At the most inappropriate moment. During the invocation by Archbishop Richard Cardinal Cushing smoke poured from the lectern. Whatever the origin of the fire, it was quickly extinguished. Cardinal Cushing was undisturbed. A flit-

Jewish Group Disagrees With Stand

NEW YORK (AP)—Five national Jewish organizations disagreed today with Francis Cardinal Spellman's recent remarks on federal aid to church schools.

The Jewish religious and civic bodies said distributing such funds to other than public schools would violate both public opinion and the U. S. constitution.

A statement was issued jointly by the American Jewish Congress, Jewish Labor Committee, Jewish War Veterans, Union of American Hebrew Congregations (reform), and United Synagogue of America (conservative).

The cardinal, Roman Catholic archbishop of New York, had aroused Protestant leaders by saying at an archdiocesan meeting last Tuesday that plans for federal school aid would be unfair if the money went only to public schools and not to church-operated schools.

An education task force of the incoming Kennedy administration called for a $9.3-billion program of federal aid to education. Cardinal Spellman's remarks followed.

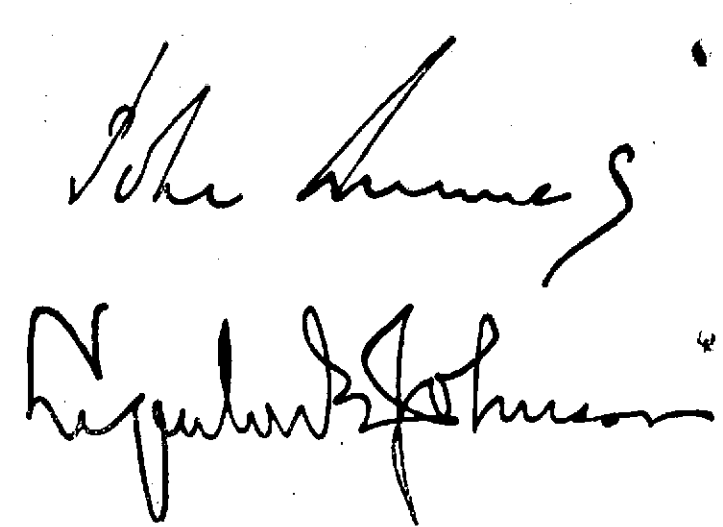

The Jewish groups said they do not consider exclusion of Jewish religious schools from federal aid programs discriminatory.

"We deem the maintenance and furtherance of the Jewish religion to be the responsibility of the Jewish community, a responsibility which we have no desire to impose either in whole or in part on the federal government," their statement said.

Church to Aid Sharecroppers

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc., plans financial aid to Fayette and Haywood County, Tenn., Negro sharecroppers who say their registration as voters brought an economic boycott against them.

The 5-million member Negro church group's executive board wound up a midwinter meeting here Thursday by voting to assume mortgages on equipment held by the farmers.

At the same time, Convention President J. H. Jackson of Chicago reported the failure of an attempt to buy 500 acres of land in Fayette County. Jackson said owners of the land on which he said a tent city for Negroes had been erected—raised the price from $100 to $7500 per acre when they learned the Convention was interested in its purchase.

Jackson presented an $885 check to Louie Dowdy, 46, of Fayette County and said it was the first of the promised mortgage payments.

DOROTHY DIX

All Doors Closed
In Her Home Town

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen:

My 16-year-old granddaughter was put in a girls' correctional school at 15. A few boys were involved and there was a fight where she baby-sat which brought this on. Her father said, "Well, she is getting what she deserves."

He used to call her "Big Horse," or "Mack Truck," and made her run the tractor or pick potatoes. She is big, blonde and pretty.

She was ready to come home in December but her father refuses to leave the small town where they live and the high school she attended refuses to take her back. The principal feels it wouldn't be fair to the other girls. She still has one year of high school to complete, and has always been a wonderful student, having A's in all subjects.

Now the authorities at the correctional school refuse to let her return home saying she has a father fixation. She may stay at the school till she is 18. Her mother—my oldest daughter—is heartbroken. Her father thinks some other member of the family should take her when the time comes. I can't. She isn't permitted to go where there are male teenagers. My youngest son is 17.

The teachers and doctors at the correctional school say my granddaughter is cured and, unless she has a bad letdown, will continue to be. We don't think she should be discarded. What are we to do? —Worried Grandmother

Dear Worried Grandmother: Don't cross a bridge till you come to it. Your granddaughter evidently has real friends among the teachers at the correctional school and will be with them for at least another year. By then, with their help, she should be mature enough to face the world on her own. Meanwhile, plans could be laid for her to complete her schooling, or work in another town. Here again, her teachers might help. Ask their advice.

Above all, it is important that your granddaughter feel the security of family affection. You and her mother should visit the school as often as permitted and, when possible, take her little presents. Show her, in every way possible, that she still holds a real place in your hearts.

Dear Helen:

I am a young married man with a problem. My wife is a good cook and neat housekeeper but—she won't even try to bake. Try as I will to persuade her, it's no use. Any suggestion from you would be appreciated. —A Cake Lover

Dear Cake Lover: Tell your wife I'm in the same boat—only it's homemade bread, not cake, that my husband loves. Your wife may be a good cook, as I pride myself on being, but, like me, has buck fever at the very thought of baking bread or cakes. However, I accepted the challenge.

The first loaves could have doubled as concrete. My husband called them "Bride's bread." In defense let me say that the birds who pecked at these early efforts still live. Now, after half a dozen failures, I can really bake good, old-fashioned homemade bread. And, believe me, that has done something for my ego. Show this column to your wife. Keep me posted on the results.

Dear Helen:

I play second fiddle to my boy friend's car. All he does when I'm around is talk cars or work on his. Yet he has time to go for a "drag" with the boys. Sunday, we were sitting around in his father's store. I talked to his younger brother, he to other boys about cars. If those kids hadn't been there he would have gotten his ring back.

I don't know how he feels about me, I don't even know how I feel

Bodies of Four Men Discovered

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—Bodies of four men, their skulls broken, were found in a field Thursday.

Undersheriff Carol Joy said autopsies showed that holes were made by an instrument such as a ball-penn hammer. The victims had not been robbed.

None of the victims had been identified. A woman who lives nearby, Mrs. Freeman Arbo, said she saw five men drunk and apparently quarreling at the murder site when she went outside to feed her chickens the night before.

The men's bedrolls and empty wine bottles were strewn about the site, a camping spot for itinerants, authorities said.

Faubus and AIDC Apart on 2 Things

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus and the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission differ on two issues before the 1961 General Assembly—exemptions in the sales and use tax laws and the means of financing industrial expansion.

The AIDC is for more exemptions to the sales tax, but Faubus is against it. The AIDC is for keeping and using all the existing means of financing new industry, but Faubus wants to cut down on them.

Thursday the AIDC endorsed two bills introduced by Sen. Ellis M. Fagan of Little Rock, to increase the exemptions in the sales tax and the other to broaden the application of the use tax.

The governor and other state officials are wary of changes because the sales tax is the state's biggest source of income and they do not want to lose tax revenue.

New York in Strike and Storm Grip

NEW YORK (AP)—The crippling railroad tieup tightened its grip on New York and New England today as snow, ice and bitter cold brought new hardship for the horde of commuters forced to use buses and private autos.
Emergency negotiations sponsored by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller recessed at 2 a.m. with no progress in efforts to settle the harbor strike that caused the ever-widening rail paralysis.
Rockefeller, who canceled plans to attend the Kennedy inauguration, invited the negotiators and federal mediators to meet with him later today.
The governor said the tieup was "getting close to catastrophic proportions."
He stepped into the picture Thursday, announcing round-the-clock efforts toward settlement would be made.
The 11-day-old strike has stranded 100,000 commuters, most of whom have been using other means of transportation between the city and their homes in the New York-New Jersey-Connecticut metropolitan area.
The strike has shut down most of the operations of the New York Central and New Haven railroads. Long-distance service has been canceled in addition to service for 40,000 commuters on the Central and 30,000 on the Pennsylvania. Also hit are 30,000 New Jersey-Manhattan commuters who used railroad ferriesboats.
Heavy economic losses are being suffered in the area.
Railroad workers are not on strike. The vast tieup spawned from a strike by 604 crewmen of tugboats and ferriesboats of 11 railroads that operate in the harbor. They are members of three marine unions.
Employees of the New York Central and New Haven railroads have refused to cross the thin picket lines of the strikers. As the picketing spread the rail tieup grew.
A job security clause for a new contract is the principal issue in the dispute.

Faubus to Try to Keep Shumaker
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus says the state must do everything in its power to keep the Shumaker Naval Ammunition Depot available for industrial development.
The 64,000-acre facility, built during World War II at a cost of about $225 million, has been declared surplus by the General Services Administration and bids are to be opened April 10 for its sale.
Faubus said after a meeting with south Arkansas legislators Wednesday that "there is a need for action" to keep the depot intact for the benefit of the state.

Five Arkansans Admitted to Hall of Fame

By WICK TEMPLE

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Lon Warneke pitched that fast ball again Thursday night. Paul Runyan slapped that wood shot. And 600 of Arkansas' most avid sports fans heard the roar of the crowds of yesterday.

It was the third annual Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame installation banquet, at which five new members took their places alongside 11 who were inducted at two previous dinners.

The hall got its first honorary member—ex-major league catcher Joe Garagiola—who has been a toastmaster and key figure at the three Hall of Fame banquets.

Garagiola received the honorary membership plaque from Hall of Fame president Jack Pickens at the conclusion of the 2½ hour program. The colorful St. Louis Cardinal broadcaster, who had been the life of the party, was overcome with gratitude.

"I'm a big-mouth," Garagiola said. "I know it. I kid the governor and everybody, but I don't have words to express my gratitude for this."

The new members of the Hall of Fame are baseball player-umpire Warneke, Golfer Runyan, and coaches Morley Jennings Earl Quigley and the late Hugo Besdek.

They were installed ably, imaginatively by men who had played under them, with them, or near them. The Marion Hotel ballroom, home of the Hall of Fame, was filled with nostalgia.

The crowd, composed of Hall of Fame patrons and their guests, included most of the state's top sports figures. Many of them, such as ex-Detroit Tiger shortstop George Kell and Arkansas Razorback Coach Frank Broyles, may be destined for Hall of Fame membership in the future.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus was there, chuckling heartily as he was made the butt of friendly joke after joke. Garagiola ribbed him zestfully. "I've been here three years (as toastmaster)," Garagiola said. "I thought this year I'd catch up with Gov. Faubus but that guy ain't never gonna quit."

Then he leaned over the microphone toward Faubus and said, "How long you gonna stay in, governor?"

Frank Slocum, assistant to baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, who introduced Warneke, said anybody here would be interested in election to the Hall of Fame except one man—the governor. He's not interested in anything he can only be elected to once."

Slocum jibed at Garagiola, too. Joe grew up in the same St. Louis neighborhood with Yankee catcher Yogi Berra, and now both have written books on baseball.

"It's the first time in history," Slocum said, "that one neighborhood has given America two authors, neither of whom could read."

Warneke said he remembered Garagiola as a catcher for the Pirates, Cubs and Cardinals during Warneke's Major League umpiring days.

"When Joe was at bat," Warneke said, "the pitcher couldn't throw a strike. But when he was catching, they were all strikes."

Runyan, twice PGA tournament winner and twice the leading pro money winner estimated he had walked "two and a half times around the world, following the golf ball."

He called himself "one of the shortest hitters in the history of the game," but the man who introduced him Alfred Kahn of Little Rock, also recalled Runyan was one of the best wood shots in golf. The Hot Springs native now is a pro at LaJolla, Calif. Country Club.

Earl Quigley, who built Little Rock Central's athletic empire in 41 years of work, recalled the day he came to Little Rock from Wisconsin in 1914. He tore a gaping hole in the seat of his only pants on a restaurant stool, and although it was mid-July, he wore a chinchilla overcoat all over town for two days until he found a tailor.

Bezdek, the coach who named the Arkansas Razorbacks and led them to their only unbeaten season in 1909, was installed by his 1909 quarterback, Steve Creekmore, of Fort Smith, and his plaque was accepted by the center on that team, Phil Huntley of Malvern. A telegram of congratulations came from one of Bezdek's best friends, Amos Alonzo

Undefeated Teams Better Beware

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kansas State and Cincinnati, powers, take to the road for key two streaking college basketball tests tonight—and take it from DePaul's shocked Demons—the word is: Beware!

The 10th-ranked Kansas State Wildcats, unbeaten in their last 10 games, defend their Big Eight Conference lead against arch-rival Kansas at Lawrence, Surging Cincinnati, now 12-3 after a 7-game string of successes, is at tough Drake in a Missouri Valley Conference match.

Both would take kindly to avoiding the kind of trap the road has held this week for seventh-ranked DePaul. Their 12-game streak snapped Tuesday night at Notre Dame, the Demons moved on to Kalamazoo Thursday night and were ambushed by Western Michigan, 85-60.

Reawakened Houston (10-5), which lost its five by a total of 17 points, spilled Texas A&M 89-85; Dayton (10-4) nipped state rival Wittenberg 46-45; and Kentucky Wesleyan edged St. Francis (Pa.), 78-76 in overtime, in other major games on Thursday night's slim program. Montana State College squeezed by Pacific Lutheran 73-70.

The Aggies, challenging for the Southwest Conference lead, became the third straight victim of Houston, which in its last two starts ended third-ranked Bradley's 18-game winning streak and then thumped St. Louis.

Houston broke a 83-83 tie in the last three minutes on two driving layups by Ted Luckenbill and two free throws by Tommy Thomson. The Aggies got their last two points on Don Stanley's jump shot with six seconds left. Luckenbill finished with 29 points for Houston, Stanley with 27 for the losers.

Wonder Boys Hold Onto the Lead

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Tech Wonder Boys held on to their Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference lead with a 98-71 basketball victory over Harding Thursday night.

It was the eighth league victory to one loss for Tech and the seventh conference loss for Harding.

Harding's David Simpson hit 18 points to pace scoring. Ken Saylor had 16 for Tech.

Stagg, the grand old man of football.

Two telegrams were important in Morley Jennings' installation. The first was one described by J. L. Carter of Arkadelphia, who introduced him. It was the wire Jennings sent collect when he was offered the job at Ouachita College in 1912. It read, "Yes."

The other was one sent Thursday night by the widow of the late Jimmy Haygood, Henderson coach who was installed in the Hall of Fame last year. Haygood and Jennings were fierce rivals and great friends when both coached at the two Arkadelphia schools.

The telegram from Mrs. Haygood read:

"I'm glad you are together again."

Coach Thinks Warriors Have Chance

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Coach Neil Johnston today took stock of the National Basketball Association race and his own Philadelphia Warriors club which is in second place in the Eastern Division, three games behind Boston.

"I think we're very much in the thick of the race," said Johnston after the Warriors had defeated Western Division leader St. Louis 129-127 on a field goal and a free throw by Will Chamberlain with 46 seconds remaining. Chamberlain was high for the Warriors with 39 points but Bob Pettit of the Hawks took game honors with 42.

"I don't think Boston has an insurmountable lead," the Warriors' coach said.

Boston, in the first game of the Convention Hall doubleheader, maintained its lead by beating the Los Angeles Lakers 108-102 with the clincher coming on Tom Heinsohn's field goal with 1:06 remaining after the Celtics had blown a 15-point lead. Heinsohn and Bob Cousy shared scoring honors for the Celtics with 22 points each. Elgin Baylor was high for the Lakers with 29.

In the only other NBA game action Thursday night, New York handed Cincinnati its seventh loss in the last eight games, 129-122, and dropped the Royals into third place in the Western Division. The Royals were without high scorer Oscar Robertson, sidelined with a hip injury.

Plane Crash in New York Kills Four

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP)—A jet airliner crashed Thursday night seconds after taking off in a wind-whipped snowstorm. The huge ship's speed sent it slamming across a highway, clipping an auto and skidding in flames into a marsh.

Of the 106 persons reported aboard 102 escaped death, although at least 26 were injured, several critically.

The dead tentatively were identified as four of the eight crew members — three men and the woman purser. Sixty-one of the 98 passengers aboard the four-engine airliner are residents of the United States.

The airliner, a DC-8B of Aeromexico, went down at 8:25 p.m. It was bound nonstop for Mexico City.

One survivor, G. Terry Sechrist of Farmington, Conn., said the plane got about 50 feet in the air, then skidded down. Other survivors weren't certain if the plane ever got off the ground.

Idlewild Airport observers said the $5-million craft had to get aloft to clear a concrete fence at the end of the runway. The plane did hit a wire fence just beyond the concrete barrier. Sections of the wire fence were crumpled in the wreckage. The front section of the plane became enveloped in flames.

The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Agency began on-the-scene investigations in an attempt to learn the cause of the crash.

The one person aboard who might have the answer is William B. Poe, 52, of Miami, Fla., check pilot aboard the plane. But Poe's condition early today at St. Joseph's Hospital in Queens was described as "still critical."

Noting that the plane took off in a blinding snowstorm with winds up to 25 miles per hour, Ren. Steven B. Derouman, R-N.Y., said in a statement from Washington:

"Next week I will introduce some legislation to make it mandatory that no takeoff or landings of planes will be allowed unless visibility is 2.5 miles and the minimum ceiling is 2,500 feet."

Visibility at the time of the crash was a quarter of a mile and the ceiling about 300 feet.

Derouman is a member of the House subcommittee on transportation and aeronautics.

Police tentatively identified the bodies found in the wreckage as those of Capt. Ricardo Gonzales, the pilot; First Officer Antonio Ruiz Bravo; Second Officer Javier Alvarez Bacra; and Gloria Sanchez Herrejon, the purser.

When the plane finally halted, passengers leaped through exit doors and smashed windows and fled in all directions in the sub-freezing temperature.

Many were picked up by passing motorists and driven back to the airport or taken to hospitals. The DC-8B is the same type plane involved in the crash last month over Staten Island, killing 134 persons in history's worst commercial aviation disaster. A United Air Lines jet and a Trans World Airlines piston-driven Super-Constellation collided while coming in for landings.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

CHAPTER XXXV

Bart stepped across the wagon tongue. Two men at the edge of the crowd near the outlaw trio got up and moved hurriedly back through the wagons to get out of the line of fire.

Willis murmured, unperturbed: "You seem to have three associates in counsel, Mr. Browning. Would you care to identify them?"

All three of the outlaws spoke at once. "He doesn't have to answer."

Judge Willis frowned and drew a deep breath. The horsefly buzzed around his head, and Willis struck at it with the paper, but missed again. Then he said to the spectators, "A legal trial cannot be held under such circumstances of interference. You three gentlemen are guilty of contempt of court, and I sentence each of you to pay a fine of $100." He turned to Wheeler. "The court will have to be cleared, sheriff, until order is resumed."

Wheeler looked at the three outlaws, swallowed, and said, "This court is not in my jurisdiction, Your Honor."

Willis spoke in a low voice to Wheeler, and then wrote in his book. "The court has just entered the names of Xenophon Jones, Stud Murphy and Piggie Benson as appearing in behalf of defendant. The minutes will also show that these three men have been adjudged 20% of contempt. The court also notes off the record, that this session must be postponed since die unless order is restored."

Stud Murphy stepped forward two paces. "Get out of there, Halvorson!" he shouted. "You're a free man!"

"Wait a minute!" Bart said in a loud voice.

Jones moved out a little from the other two. "Who's talking?" he asked.

"I'm talking," said Bart. "With lead if necessary."

"If I draw on you, you'll die," said Jones.

Bart smiled as he walked a little farther into the open. "If I draw on you, all three of you will die. You are surrounded — all of you." He looked around the entire semicircle. "These chuck wagons are filled with rifles — and men behind them. If you open fire, you and your men will be shot down like dogs!" He pointed to the wagon behind the tree.

All around the semicircle, the men of Jones's gang and the hired guns of Benson's hardcase crew looked at the wagon. From both ends of it, rifle barrels protruded, and along the wagon box, through slits in the canvas, were half a dozen more — all aimed at the outlaws.

Jones's cold eyes darted to the opposite side of the semicircle, and Bart knew from the hardness in his eyes that he had seen the same thing there — rifles and six-shooters held on him and his men.

"You are surrounded," Bart said in a loud voice, "and the first man to draw a gun will die."

He saw the eyes of the hired gunmen alongside the three leaders swing around the arc, and for a moment he thought the fight would be won without a gunshot. Jones drew suddenly from both holsters.

Bart moved too fast for any eye to see. His 44's sprang forward, one spouting fire and lead at Jones, the other at Murphy.

The area that had constituted the courtroom erupted in flame and thunder and hot lead. Murphy shot and Jones fired once or twice. Then Murphy lurched but kept shooting. Jones threw up his hands and went over backward, his guns throwing flame into the blue sky.

Bart moved his aim toward Benson, but the man was on the ground. Bart felt warm blood running down his side, and then a cloud of white smoke rolled over everything.

After that brief but incredible violent burst of gunfire, there was no sound. Arrington stood between the wagons.

Bart looked down at the dead outlaws: Xenophon Jones with his wavy brown whiskers; Stud Murphy with his big black mustache; and Piggie Benson, hollow-chested even in death.

Bart put his six-shooters away. Wheeler corralled some men to help him examine the bodies and carry them out. The outlaws who had been brought in as hired gunmen had disappeared, and Charles Goodnight was plugging up the hole in Bart's side. "Too low for lungs; too far to one side for stomach; too high for guts," he announced.

Bart saw Harding come up. "You got Benson?" he asked.

Harding shrugged. "You were watching the other two. I sort of concentrated on Benson."

Goodnight went up to the desk. "It seems to me, Judge, that the immediate interests of justice might best be served if you recessed court for a few minutes so everybody could have a drink."

Judge Willis arose. "Charlie," he said, "you really said something."

Department Store Sales Unchanged

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today department store sales in the 8th Federal Reserve District the week ended Jan. 14 were unchanged from the corresponding week of last year.

Stores in St. Louis had increased sales of three per cent and those in seven smaller district cities rose 15 per cent over the same week in 1961.

But this was offset by a 19 per cent decline in Little Rock, a seven per cent drop in Memphis and a fall of four per cent in Louisville.

District sales during the four week period ended Jan. 14 were four per cent above the similar period last year.

Goalby Leads in Crosby Golf Meet

By JACK STEVENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Husky Bob Goalby swung into today's second round of the $50,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament with a one-stroke lead and a string of six straight sub-par holes.

The 29-year-old former University of Illinois football player fired five birdies and an eagle as the windup to his first round.

That brought him the lead with a six-under-par 66. Right behind him at 67 were defending champion Ken Venturi, Howie Johnson, Dave Hill and Bill Collins.

Deadlocked at 68 were Jack Burke, Jerry Barber, Dave Ragan, and at 69 were Dick Strahan, Sam Reynolds, Dow Finsterwald, Lionel Hebert, Al Balding, Walter Burkemo, Ted Kroll and Bob Rosburg.

Warm, sunny, windless weather provided the chance for low scores and no less than 39 fired sub-par first rounds.

Goalby, one-over-par through the first 12 holes, said, "I was just trying to shot 70. I figured that was about the best I could do."

Playing the Monterey Peninsula course, he had missed the greens at the fourth, seventh, and tenth holes.

Leading in the pro-am after the first round were two teams with best-ball scores of 60 — Dow Finsterwald and Fred Kammer of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., and Jack Burke with George Coleman Jr., of Palm Beach, Fla. The amateur's handicaps are figured in the pro-amateur scoring.

Venturi, of Palo Alto, Calif., and Collins, who plays out of Crystal River, Fla., shot their opening 67's at Pebble Beach, generally considered the toughest of the three layouts. Hill, former Michigan amateur star now a pro living in Denver, played Monterey Peninsula while Johnson, of Coghill, Ill., shot at Cypress Point.

Arnold Palmer, golfer-of-the-year in 1960 and winner of last week's San Diego Open, kept in contention with a first-round 70.

Arizona's tallest building is a new 20-story bank in Phoenix.

The federal charge was later dropped and the case turned over to county authorities.

The indictment against Miller apparently is the only one returned in the case so far.

Arkansan Is Arrested in Bombing Case

MARION, Ark. (AP) — A 44-year-old West Memphis man has been arrested in connection with an alleged bombing attempt at a Little Rock Negro college and was ordered to appear in Pulaski Circuit Court Feb. 13.

Emmett E. Miller was arrested Thursday and released on $5,000 bond.

He was charged in an indictment returned Monday by the Pulaski County Grand Jury.

Miller is charged with attempting to commit a felony.

FBI agents found a dynamite bomb outside a dormitory at Philander Smith College last July 12.

Miller and two other men — Robert Lloyd Parks, 38, of West Memphis and Hugh Lynn Adams, 33, of Bassett — were charged with violating a federal law prohibiting the interstate transportation of dynamite for the purpose of bombing a school.

The federal charge was later dropped and the case turned over to county authorities.

The indictment against Miller apparently is the only one returned in the case so far.
